Allegion invites you to attend a class on:

Preparing To Conduct A Keying Meeting

MK220

The planning and implementation of a master key system is one of the most important jobs in the world of commercial door hardware. It takes expertise, attention to detail, the ability to ask good questions, the patience to listen for the answers, and an insistence on thoroughness so no opening goes unnoticed and no customer need goes unaddressed. Do you know master keying but are new to conducting a keying conference? Or, perhaps you participate in them so infrequently you feel a little rusty each time you do? Either way, this program can help you lead a productive, customer-oriented keying conference.

Course Length: 1 day

Topics Include:

- Best practices that make master key systems more secure, safe, and long-lasting
- 'Worst' practices that cause key systems to fail
- How to prepare for keying conferences
- Decisions that need to be made at keying conferences
- Conversations at keying conferences

Upon Completion of This Course, You Will Be Able to:

- Prepare for productive keying conferences
- Lead the keying conference in a professional, efficient, and customer-focused manner
- Utilize your master keying expertise to plan and implement a master key system that meets your customers' current and anticipated needs

Who Should Attend:
Distributors, Locksmiths, and Sales Personnel with a good working knowledge of master keying and standard key coding systems

Continuing Education Credit: 1 point toward maintaining your ALOA certified status

NJ CEU Credit(s): 6

Thursday, 10/16/2025

Accredited Lock
1161 Paterson Plank Rd.
Secaucus, NJ

Time: 8:30am – 4pm
(Lunch to be provided)

Allegion Contact:
David Finkelstein
David.Finkelstein@allegion.com
732-547-6466

To register, go to www.allegiontraining.com
Use course # MK220 to find this class

KRYPTONITE ■ LCN ■ SCHLAGE ■ STEELCRAFT ■ VON DUPRIN

ALLEGION